COLLEGE AND WORK ATTRACT CLASS OF '33

With the return to school, one readily notices the vacancies caused by the graduation of the senior class. The coach must rebuild the team, the choirmaster his glee club, everything must be renovated. To other fields these graduates have departed, intent on continuing scholastic and athletic achievements there.

The majority are carrying on at the college. Twenty-seven have matriculated there: Ed. Anderson, John Becker, Tom Backes, Ken Callaghan, Ed Donahue, Melvin Graf, Peter Graf, Clint Kelly, William Kieffer, Francis Kirk, Al Maley, Ken Mayerle, Nuge McAndrews, Don McMullen, Bert McQuillen, Francis O'Connor, Robert Palen, George Prelan, John Schroeder, Michael Shanahan, Reynold Sigwarth, Robert Spahn, William Trow, Chris Voelker, Loras Watters and Eugene Weimer.

Andrew Balk of Carroll, Iowa, has entered Creighton. Nick Corrozzo will take up studies at the University of Illinois. William Ellwanger has gone to Madison to study at the University of Wisconsin. The University of Iowa has allured Robert Kunnert.

Francis Garvey is taking a post-graduate course in Seneca, Wisconsin and Robert Schwaelger, another Badger representative, is working on a farm near Madison.

By far the larger portion of the class have either secured jobs or are helping the folks at home. Both Charles Bissette and Edward Tomczak are working in the Windy City. Donald Cullen and James Weber are reputed to be working in this city, Don at Roshek's and Jim for the Central Paper and Specialty Co. Jean Schnieder is employed at the Register Printing Co. across the river in East Dubuque. Of the others we have received no information but we have moral certitude that they too are doing their share.

Fathers Enzler, Ferring Leave for Graduate Work

The opening of the scholastic year at Columbia was accompanied by several important changes in the College and Academy faculties. Father Leroy J. Enzler and Father Clarence A. Ferring have left their professorial capacities at the Academy to study further in their selected branches, while a Columbia Academy and College alumnus, Father James Donahue has become an instructor at the college.

Father Enzler who taught Mathematics and Mechanical Drawing at Columbia Academy since 1929, is now reviewing different branches of Engineering at the Iowa State College at Ames. He has a B. Sc. degree from the Armour Institute of Technology and is an alumnus of Columbia College. He studied for the priesthood and merited an S. T. B. degree at the Propaganda University in Rome. Father Enzler's capabilities as a teacher and as a friend and adviser of the students makes his absence deeply felt not only by those who were his pupils but by every one with whom he came in contact.

Father Ferring, a member of the Academy faculty since 1930, is doing advanced work in the field of German at the Catholic University in Washington, D. C. While at Columbia he taught, at different times, Latin, Science, Algebra and Religion.

FATHER SEMPER SPENDS SUMMER IN EUROPE

The Rev. Isidore J. Semper, head of the English department of Columbia College, spent the summer in Europe.

He was a member of the New York pilgrimage to Rome making the Holy Year. He spent three weeks in Rome where he met the three Dubuque boys studying for the priesthood, A. Hoffman, L. Ernsdorff and A. Schmitt.

He had a very fine talk with them and he said that they liked the life and habits of the American college there.

While in Rome Father Semper had the privilege of being present at a public audience of the Holy Father. The Holy Father spoke for fifteen minutes.

Fr. Semper traveled through Northern Italy and France. While he was in Belgium he met another Dubuque boy, Karl Schroeder, who is aso studying for the priesthood. Karl is now a sub-deacon. Fr. Semper then left for the United States in the latter part of the summer.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT SHORT OF LAST YEAR

On Friday and Tuesday, the first and fifth of September, day and resident students to the approximate number of two hundred and seventy enrolled at Columbia Academy. The celebration of a solemn High Mass by Monsignor Thomas Conry, president of Columbia College, on September the eighth, heralded the official opening of the scholastic year.

Immediately following this Mass, which was sung in St. Joseph's Chapel, Father J. I. Patnode, the principal, delivered a brief message in which he stressed the grave responsibility which rests upon the individual student when his presence at school is begotten of the sacrifices of his parents and benefactors. He ended with the earnest plea that each one conduct himself in his dealings with his fellow students and with the faculty in such a way so as to reflect credit upon his name and those so vitally interested in him.

The enrollment this year is highly satisfactory to both faculty and student body in that the classes are almost ideal numerically, each student thus receiving more individual attention than is possible when classes are larger, as they were last year. Several of the faculty members have commented on the "fine spirit of cooperation" which exists between the student and the teacher. This fine spirit coupled with the interest which is taken in curricular and extra curricular activity should make for a successful school year.

A SUGGESTION

Dear Friend or Alumnus:

No doubt you are desirous of keeping in touch with what the Academy is doing. There is no beter way than by taking the CEE AY. The subscription is only a dollar. Your sustained patronage will help us a lot. Let's hear from you. The Staff.

Stresses Need of Age For Catholic Education

The Columbia College school-year officially opened last Sunday with a Solemn High Mass at which the Archbishop of Dubuque presided. Monsignor Conry acted as celebrant while Fathers Steffen and Striegel were deacon and sub-deacon respectively. Father Mullen and Father Fitzgerald were masters of ceremonies. Fathers Hoffman, Thier and Collins were assistants to the Archbishop. The other assistants at the Mass were; Father Martin, cross-bearer; J. Dulin, book-bearer; F. Kernan, sandle-bearer; A. Kelly, train-bearer; L. Merfeld, mitre-bearer; Showater, crosier bearer; S. Kuenster, thurifier; and H. Crubel and J. Penne were acolytes. The Academy students that were acolytes are; C. DeBarr, G. Schwarz, F. Kula, and D. Mullally.

The College Choir, under the supervision of Father Dress, sang the mass. The students accompanied the choir with the singing of the Credo. The student body of both College and Academy, and the members of the faculty, not taking part in the ceremony, were present at the mass.

After the mass, Archbishop Beckman spoke on the opening of the school-year stressing the importance of scholastic efforts and need for true scholarship. He concluded his sermon with some timely thoughts on vocations to the priesthood.

SEVERAL NEW WRITERS JOIN CEE-AY STAFF

Because of the graduation of so many of its distinguished writers and contributors the Cee Ay of this year finds itself in the hands and maybe at the mercy of many new members.

As was announced before the close of last year, the editors for the '3-'34 Cee Ay are Robert O'Rourke and Herbert Boland both capable writers and efficient workers. The staff proper, besides the co-editors, includes such news specialists as Edwin Knockel, John Farrell, Howard Lynch and John McFarland. Paul Schuster, Robert Deggendorf, Claude Norton, Lylllwellyn Cox, Donald Wiehl, John McCollins, Charles De Barr, Joseph Evans, John Coros, Eugene Hickey, Francis Schroeder, Joseph Moore, Joseph Meyer, James Coleman, John Kolfenbach, for the present will act as reporters. Jerome Ungs, Hilarius Heying, and Francis Donahue will take care of circulation.

Every best effort will be put forth to make the 1933-'34 Cee Ay a source of worthwhile interest.

Principal's Message

I have been asked by an inquiring reporter of the CeeAy to express a message to the students of 1933-193. My message is this:

Students, at all times, should strive to profit by the opportunities given them in obtaining an education. This is especially true of the present time when economic conditions are such that educational opportunity is given only at the cost of supreme self-sacrifice on the part of parents.

Therefore, Columbians, be prepared to do your very best, that you may in part repay such sacrifice and in some measure make the burden somewhat lighter to bear.

As regards your school, remember that we are striving, under trying circumstances, to give you every advantage possible, and to make your school life at pleasant as possible.

Let us resolve to give a full measure of cooperation and exhibit a spirit of cheerful helpfulness at home and in school and, doing this, our year cannot but be a success.

Best Effort Now

With every student physically fit and mentally refreshed after a three months stretch of quiet, calm and relaxation there should be stored up the ability to accomplish things, a desire to release a great amount of energy. Things really worth while both in the future and now can be accomplished with greater success by the serious application of eager and alert faculties. Not only will the profitable expenditure of the summer's immense store of vitality be of service in the distant future, but it will aid in the not so far remote accomplishment of a successful school year. Time spent wisely now will be invaluable when the sledding becomes hard, when a knowledge of fundamentals will be a handy machine for solving more difficult assignments. So why not extend your efforts when they will bring greater and better results and when there is so much enthusiasm that must find an outlet in something? Apply this desire for mental and physical activity now and by a persevering effort keep it all through the year that it may create a pleasant and wholesome mental condition upon which the success of the school year depends.

Suggestions

In past years, it has been noticed by the Cee-Ay staff some Columbians have directed frequent complaints towards the editorial column on the ground that the matter printed there might be designated as "preachy." We realize that the editorial has a higher mission than to be merely the vehicle for moralizing. It is also apparent to us that the editorial column which repeatedly reverts to preaching will be read only by those who write it, if at all.

The staff of 1933-34 naturally wants to obliterate from the school publication all traces of such a defect and it can best do so with the help of the student body. If you are one of those who have in other years criticized our editorial column, then at least be constructive in your criticism this year. Offer your suggestions and opinions to the editors, or, better yet, embody your ideas in a representative essay. Don't sit idly by and censor the work of those who are doing their best to make the Cee-Ay a success. The Cee-Ay can thrive this year only on the mutual cooperation of the students who constitute the staff with those who do not write regularly for publication.

Columbians Chat Corner

In spite of the fact no one claims a love for study, everybody seemed glad to be back within the confines of the institution.

Fathers Ferring and Enzler are two familiar faces missing from the faculty. Father Ferring is studying at the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., and Father Enzler is continuing his engineering work at Iowa State, Ames.

A rumor has it that plans are being laid to draft Joe T. Meyer as cheerleader after his spectacular and well meant exhibition on Main street during the N. R. A. parade.

The entire student body turned out en masse and marched Friday, backing the N. R. A. The Columbia delegation was headed by the Columbia College Band and six monsignori of the city.

"Claudie" Norton and the truck are no longer seen cruising in the vicinity of Cleveland Ave. Too bad, Claude.

Phil Renier and Louis McComish observed still wagging their thumbs at the bottom of Fourteenth at 8:10.

We nominate for the Hall of Fame the Senior satellite who politely but firmly declined to spend twelve hours studying o'er the week-end.

Things we couldn't do without—
Beadle and his escapades.
Father Stemm's radio jokes.

We wonder if the Bluff Street gang is still having its weekly rummy sessions?

Rumor has it Ed. Goodman has become enmeshed in social obligations.

We Do Our Part!

Infirmary Notes

Sister Clemita who for the past five years had been in charge of the College infirmary has been transferred to the hospital at Le Mars, Iowa. Sister Clemita will be long remembered here for her many kindnesses and pleasant manner. It is the wish of the faculty and students that she enjoy her new assignment.

The new infirmarian this year is Sister Adorine, a native of the Holy Ghost parish of this city.

Robert Hanson, sophomore in the academy, is recovering gradually from an operation for appendicitis performed several days ago at Mercy Hospital.

After a slight relapse, his condition has shown marked improvement. His schoolmates sincerely hope for his immediate recovery and return to school.

Chapel Program

For the new scholastic year 1933-34 the following young men will be student sacristans: Edwin Knochel, of Lincoln, Illinois, a senior, head sacristan; Howard Lynch, Madison, Wisconsin, a senior, Robert Swift, Cedar Falls, Iowa, a junior, Hilarius Heying, Calmar, Iowa, a junior and Francis Speyer, Chicago, Ill., a junior, will be assistants. Fr. Luke B. Striegel will be in charge of the training of both sacristans and Mass servers.

The first call for volunteers for the Academy Acolytical Society has gone forth. Columbia Academy feels that every Catholic young man should learn how to serve Mass. It is a precious privilege, an opportunity to receive a special share in the rich treasures of the Mass. It is a custom at Columbia Academy to have every Senior Boarder take his turn serving Mass at the main altar for a period of two or three weeks during his senior year. The under class men have an opportunity to serve at one of the six additional altars at which Mass is read daily simultaneously with the Community Mass. The day pupils are urged to serve Mass in their own parishes. Boarders serve Benediction on Sundays and day pupils on Fridays in the Academy chapel.

"The Captain of the Rosary" for this year will be James Coleman, from Wauzeda, Wisconsin, a senior The Boarding students have morning and night prayer in common in the Academy chapel. It is a beautiful Academy custom that each senior take his turn, for a week at a time, leading morning and night prayers. The Rosary is a part of the night prayer.

Inquiring Reporter

The Inquiring Reporter asked five students this week the question: Would you favor a student monitor system?

Jerome Ungs, senior—More work could be accomplished if such a system were innovated.

Paul Schuster, senior—I would be highly in favor of such a system. It would prevent students from roaming the corridors.

Richard Sanders, senior—I believe that the installation of such a system would be highly profitable to the students and would induce more and better work.

John Kolfenbach, junior—It is sure that such a system would stop all unnecessary traffic in the corridors during study and class periods and keep more students in the study hall.

Francis Donohue, junior—I am thoroughly convinced of its merits.

SENIOR CLASS MEMBERS HOLD FIRST MEETING

Members of the senior class held their first meeting of the year Wednesday during assembly period. The work accomplished during this meeting was the decision of the seniors to have Mecca Studio perform the photography work for their graduation pictures and those in the year book. Herbert Boland, senior class president for this year, presided over the meeting. Mr. Burch, photographer for the Mecca Studio was present.

COACH CRETZMEYER GROOMS GUBS

Gubs Prepare for Initial Encounter

Coach Cretzmeyer has, for the past two weeks, been getting his 1933 edition of the Gubs into shape by putting them through the various preliminary exercises and fundamentals. With a nucleus of six veterans and two weeks of practice behind them, it is sure that the team will be able to give a creditable account of itself in its game today against Galena.

In the backfield the Gubs will have three veterans, Joe Voelker, Tony Weedon and Capt. Streff with Gloden and Giesler making strong bids for the place vacated by Chris Voelker. In the line there will be Bill Kellar at the pivot position and Porter, Ludescher or Tierney holding down the end assignments. The guard and tackle positions will probably be assigned to Heying, Meyer, Bierie and Brown.

Among those who will be pressing the first team for jobs are: Kolfenbach, Donohue, Ronan, Lightcap, Nennig and Pfohl.

The men who are out for football are: G. Bierie, J. Brown, J. Burke, Cota, Coyle, Donohue, D. Driscoll, J. Engler, Fitzgerald, Frommelt, Giesler, Gloden, Hey ng, Hillard, Kellar, Kolfenbach, Koob, Lightcap, Ludescher, McCollins, Melchior, Muerisse, Meyer, Nennig, O'Leary, O'Rourke, Parker, Pfohl, Porter, Ronan, Schuster, Sherman, J. Streff, W. Streff, Strohmeyer, Tierney, Ullman, Voelker, R. Weldon, J. Weldon.

STUDENTS MARCH IN GIANT N. R. A. PARADE

The students of Columbia Academy participated in the huge N. R. A. demonstration held in Dubuque Friday, September 22.

Leading the Columbia section of the parade was the banner of the College. Immediately behind this was a car carrying Archbishop Beckman, Monsignor Conry and the Dubuque Monsignori.

Next in order came the Columbia College Band. The Academic Section was represented by a huge turn-out of students. No one could shirk his patriotic duty! Behind the Academy students walked the College Student Body flanked by the Academy Band.

Horns, N. R. A. placards, confetti and noise-making devices were passed out among the students who had a good time in doing their duty. their duty.

The line of march extended from Jackson Park, south on Main Street to Second Street, west to Locust and north on Locust to Washington Park, where the parade was disbanded.

It is estimated that approximately 15,000 people took part in this gigantic demonstration of patriotism. The spirit of cooperation urged by President Franklin D. Roosevelt was very much in evidence.

Unlike many parades, the air of solemnity was banished and a carnival spirit prevailed. I twas a welcome holiday for the work-a-day folk who supported their employers and backed the National Industrial Recovery Act to the end!

Columbia Duhawks Drop Opener 13-0

Columbia College opened its 1933 football season last Saturday by losing to Iowa State Teachers at Cedar Falls, 13 to 0. The game was very slow due to the heat and many substitutions for both sides resulted.

In the first quarter, Columbia more than held its own with Boland and White doing most of the ball carrying. The Duhawks, in the early stages of the game penetrated to the Teachers' seven yard line but were held by a determined Teacher line and this proved to be their only serious threat during the game.

The second quarter proved disastrous for Columbia as the Teachers quickly pushed over a touchdown but failed to make the point. After playing through a scoreless third period, the Teachers scored again early in the final period to submerge all Duhawk hopes. Peterson, substitute quarterback, scored both touchdowns to turn in a marvelous exhibition of ball-carrying. Boland and White shared honors for Columbia each doing an equal share of the work.

Although the Duhawks had but four days of preparation for the game, they did very well against a team that has been consistently rated among the leaders of the Iowa Conference. The Duhawks looked stronger in thi sopening game than they have for many a season and with another week of practice they are expected to give LaCrosse a great battle next Saturday.

The lineups:

Columbia		Teachers
Leary	L.E.	Stribley
Neville	L.T.	Legrand

DUBUQUE MUSICIANS HONORED AT FAIR

As a reward for faithful labor, two Dubuque bands were given a trip to Chicago. The honored organizations were the Foresters, under the direction of Ed. Welu, and the Cadets. A number of Academy students were members of the Cadets, whose director is Professor Dovi, the music instructor at Columbia Academy and the director of its band.

While at Chicago, the bands paradded from the Y. M. C. A. Hotel to Soldiers Field, and participated in the giant Chicago Musicland Festival. They visited A Century of Progress Exposition, and a number of theaters. After an enjoyable stay of three days, they returned, well satisfied with the reward which their earnest efforts had merited.

Squads Ready for Intramural Games

Third down, ten to go! Columbia's ball on the ten yard line! There goes a wide end run, its over! Touchdown! With a rush through center football season comes back as the major sport. Everyone dons the moleskins and go out to do or die for good old Siwash. Everyone has not been gifted with the brawn of a Hercules and realizing this a splendid program of Intramural football has been drawn up which will give the smaller boy the one with the brains to show that it takes more than brute strength to make a football player. Of course it takes grit. There are sixty boys out for the teams so far.

The teams have been divided into two leagues; one for those that weigh between one-twenty and one-forty; and the other league for those under a hundred and twenty. In the major league Father Coyne is coaching the Russellers and will be capable of moulding a strong team from the material at hand. Carl Weitz, former Gub athlete will take charge of the Dodger aggregation. In the Minor league Father Striegel is out to show that his Teenie team makes up in spirit what they lack in beef. He is going to demonstrate this on the Midgets but their coach, Father Peters, is out for blood and his band are preparing to bring it to him in pails full. We do not wish them to go to this extreme to put on a battle royal for us but we do want to see some real football.

In the Major league the Russellers lineup will be: Botsford, Lenz, McMahon, Hickey, Paradise, Moran, Lynch, A. Spahn, Noonan, Woods, Murray, J. Sprenglemeyer, Wathen, Gilloon, Cody, Klass and Mariette. The Dodgers lineup is McGinnity, Schwartz, Hughes, Newrohner, Ameche, F. Sprenglemeyer, C. Eisbach, Saunders, Wiehl, Hoffman, Schmidt, Huber, Van Driel, R. Freund, C. Kelly and Ryan.

The Teenie aggregation is composed of Behr, Mullin, L. Juergens, Baxter, Bradley, F. Murray, C. Matthews, Schele, Mullaly, Utzig, Conlan, Pauly, Kehoe, Sloan, O'Brien, Dorrington. The Midgets have a fine team with Kula, Reilly, McClain, O'Hearn, Dietz, Link, Gavin, Graham, Frya, Kalb, Mentzer, Hauley, Ryan, Kolfenbach, Cashman, Topel, and Williams.

The first game will begin Oct. 2. In this contest the Russlers and the Dodgers will find out their opponents strength. More power to them.

Jack Lenihan's Death Shocks Student Body

The news of the death of "Jack" Lenihan, "School chef" and well-known figure in Columbia life came as a decided shock to his many friends. He will be especially missed by the Academy boarders. "Jack" in spite of his ill-health was always ready with some pleasantry or sparkling jib with which to attract the fancy of young Columbians. His ability as a "chef" could never be challenged.

Grid Bits

Duck Brown and George Bierie have been working hard all week and have shown up well in scrimmage. By all indications they should start the game Friday playing on the right side of the line.

Gene Giesler seems to be the outstanding candidate for the backfield position left open by Dick Voelker. Ronan, Driscoll, Gloden, Kolfenbach, and Engler are improving and hope to give Gene a good workout retaining his position.

Red Kellar, holding down the pivotal position he had last year, will again be seen breaking up the opponents' offense.

Hilarius Heying will be in there plugging up the holes in the left side of the line and also making holes for the Gubs' backfield.

Jim Engler has not been to practice for the last week because of an injury to his hand. He will start practice on Monday and we expect to see him go places.

Victory bound, the Cretzmeyer Gubs again present that well-known light team whose motto is "Speed."

Purple and Gold are the colors we back, so let's all cheer the Gubs to a championship team.

"Red" Kellar, our reliable center, shows how to make holes in the line for the Columbia mentor.

Captain Streff with his spirit and zip is leading the Gub outfit.

Gene Geisler, a clever halfback, ought to show class with the Academy backs.

George "Moose" Porter, the big fellow from down the river, is back in the game although he was lame. Get going!

The Country Club tennis championship was won by Francis O'Conner, an Academy alumnus of '33. Showing his usual form of fast play combined with brilliant net play, he defeated Edward Chalmers 1-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3 to win the final match and the championship.

The place vacated by "Jack" has been filled by Leonard Tucker, a culinary artist of no mean repute.

ACADEMY DELEGATES ATTEND CONVENTION

Turning an attentive ear to the cry, "God wills it, God wills it," Columbia Academy willingly responded by sending delegates to the National Crusade Convention, held at Cincinnati this summer, Aug. 8-11.

The delegates, five-hundred in number, were representatives from schools and institutions in Catholic localities, reaching across the entire United States. Besides the students present there were Bishops, Monsignori and priests, interested in the society, from the United States, together with missionaries stationed in foreign fields. The assembly was held as a means of interesting the Catholic students in mission work and for this purpose of reaching a popular decision on questions necessary for the society's existence.

The activities of the convention followed a fixed outline. Each evening was given over to talks given by a number of the celebrities present, after which followed conferences, led by various missionaries in the foreign fields. On the first morning Archbishop Francis J. Beckman celebrated a pontifical high mass; the afternoon of the same day being given over to a sight-seeing tour of Cincinnati. The following day the delegates enjoyed a boat ride on the Ohio River to Coney Island, Cincinnati's amusement park. On this excursion the colleges and high-schools were united in separate assemblies to discuss the questions presented at the convention. Before returning a large banquet was held on the roof garden of the Hotel Gibson, the headquarters of the convention.

The delegates representing Columbia Academy were Rev. Urban Churchhill, Herbert Boland, Hilarius Heying, Robert Neuwoehner and Paul Schuster.

Father John Breitbach Recovers From Illness

It was with a feeling of sincere regret that the students of the Academy learned during the summer of the serious illness of Father Breitbach, college chemistry professor. Father Breitbach had always been a real friend of the Academy and his absence from the college faculty this year will be keenly felt.

Father Breitbach has recovered much of his old buoyancy since the shock of his first illness but it is not to be expected that he should be able to step right into the classroom although it is hoped that it won't be long before that is possible. At present Father Breitbach is staying with Father Coffey, pastor at Farley.

Appreciation

The return to St. Joseph Hall was made happy and pleasant by the little touches that paint and minor fixing can lend a building. During the past summer, in spite of the times, Father Klott saw to it that the accustomed "wear and tear" of the previous year be obliterated. Accordingly several timely improvements were effected, perhaps the more noteworthy of these was a new roof on St. Joseph Hall. We want the business administration to know that we appreciate its work in this

Columbia Museum Begins Sixth Year

The Columbia College Museum, which is under the capable direction of Father William Kessler begins this fall its sixth year. During the past summer many new features have been added to the Museum collection and new opportunities and outlets of interest are afforded the Academy students who find satisfaction in fussing with the relics of the past. It is hoped that the Museum hobby will again grip a goodly number in keeping with the traditions under which it was built.

The Museum is open to the public on Wednesday night and during the semester an opportunity will be afforded students to visit the Museum every afternoon of the week. Students of both departments, College and Academy, are asked to help and use the facilities of the Museum. The Museum is located in the basement of the Science Hall on Alta Vista street.

The Museum was organized in 1927. The History Club, under the able direction of Fr. Kessler, met in the evenings to discuss points in History. The members of the club brought articles so the others could understand more clearly the lives of the men they talked of. It was in one of these meetings that Fr. Kessler saw the possibility of a Museum. The purpose in maintaining the Museum is to help the student understand History and things he reads in books.

The Most Rev. Archbishop has been a benefactor of the Museum by donating a collection of art pictures, collected from parts all over the world. Other friends of the institution have also been generous doners to the art section.

New additions have been made to the World War Collection. The Mahoney and Volkert Indian displays are being installed at the present time. Any friends or students who have museum articles may send them to the Columbia Museum in order that they may be displayed for the fall opening. Many fine donations are being sent into the Museum by friends.

New members of the staff are Robert Quirk and Robert Deggendorf.

Library

Father Kaufman has just released his tentative list of student librarians for the coming year. These men will be present in the library at certain periods each day to assist the students in selecting books and keep order in the library. The men chosen by Father Kaufman for his staff are: James Coleman, Richard Sanders, Donald Wiehl, Francis Speyer, Paul Thoma, Peter Eisbach and William Moran.

During the summer months approximately 560 volumes were added to the library and catalogued. Books were repaired and everything put in readiness for the opening of school.

Let's all give Father Kaufman our good will and cooperation this year and prove that we appreciate his fine work in repairing the library by keeping the books in good condition.

ACADEMY BAND HOLDS FIRST REHEARSALS

On Monday, September 18, with thirty-three members, the Academy Band began rehearsal for its program this school year. There was a meeting held Friday, September 24, at which Mr. Dovi selected the officers for the different positions of the band. Robert Quirk, was chosen president; Harvey Kreps, property manager; Louis McComish, drum major; and Robert Melchior, Librarian. All of these men have devoted their services to the band for one year at least.

The band made its first appearance Friday, September 22, in the N. R. A. Parade. Besides this they will appear at all the home football and basketball games. If transportation is available they will also make a few trips. There will also be the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts.

The merit system will be applied this year, as last year, hoping that every student will receive his award in May.

The members of the band are: Cornets—Renier, O. Goodman, Dorrington, Kane, Semper, Hickey, Kalb. Clarinets—Kreps, McComish, Guinta, Riley, Paradiso and Miller. Altos—Lynch, Utzig. Saxophones—E. Goodman, Letch, Schadle, Link, Melchior and Ganser. Bass Horns—C. Riley, Seymour, Schmidt and Phiffler. Drums — Murphy, Masterson, O'Rourke, Freund and Lenz. Basoon—J. Renier. Piccolo—Huber. Baritone—Wathen. Trombones — Quirk and McGinnity.

Alumni Echoes

Father I. J. Semper, while traveling on the Continent this summer, visited several former Columbians studying for the priesthood in Rome, among them Louis Ernsdorff.

Ray Sweeney of Santa Fe, New Mexico, once studied in Columbia classrooms. Now he has returned to the classroom, but in a different capacity, that of principal at Santa Fe. Recently he was a speaker at Archbishop Gerken's installation.

John Sims, Ken Ryan and Joseph Kirk, all erstwhile Columbians are continuing their studies for the priesthood in Baltimore.

Leo J. Duster '12 was elected State Commander of the American Legion at the convention held in Dubuque last month. Receiving the highest honor that could be possibly given, Leo Duster's election is just another proof of the brand of citizen Columbia turns out.

Leonard Anglin '21, a resident of Chicago for some years, has of late been appointed chief male nurse at Mercy Hospital of this city.

Charles Kreiser '28 added to his duties of coach at St. Patrick's the position of teacher at St. Columbkille's. It will be remembered that "Kri" taught for a while at this institution.

Passenger (in speeding car passing a town): "This is a nice-looking town—wasn't it?"

She: "I wonder how many men I shall make unhappy when I marry?"

He: "Well, how many men do you intend to marry?"

Gandhi

Some day the lion may lie down with the lamb, but it has refrained from doing so with Mr. Gandhi's goat.

First Co-Ed: "Is anybody looking?"

Second Co-Ed: "No."

First Co-Ed: "Then we don't have to smoke."

Here lies the body of Johnny Sap,
He drove a car with a gal in his lap.

An expert is one who knows more and more about less and less; and less and less about more and more.

The Rasberry Quartette will now sing that famous Scotch song entitled, "For two cents I would throw this penny away."

Bobby: "I saw you kiss sister last night!"

Stimson: "Did you, Bobby? Here's a quarter for you."

Bobby: "Thanks; and then I saw you kissing the maid in the hall."

Stimson: "Great Scot! Here's $5."

An alumnus of Columbia College, he studied for the priesthood at the Sulpician Seminary in Washington, D. C. and studied at the Catholic University in 1930. Father Ferring is remembered by all who knew him for his pleasing personality and sympathetic understanding of boys. He will linger long in the memories of the students of Columbia.

Father James Donahue, who atended Columbia Academy and graduated from Columbia College in 1924 now is teaching Latin at his alma mater. He also has assumed the Philosophy classes of Father Gannon who has gone to the Catholic University in Washington, D. C., for graduate study.
